

The Company

Fingleton White provides multidiscipline engineering services for the energy industry including power generation, oil and natural gas pipelines and installations. The company is responsible for planning and development of some of the most significant utility projects in Ireland. It is the leading supplier of Combined Heat and Power (CHP) in Ireland.

We are now recruiting for the following role:

Design Engineer – REF DesEng 1812

The Role - The Design Engineer will be involved in the following:

- Provide technical support to the Lead Engineer on major industrial building developments, relating to planning, fire certs and general building services
- Development of Design reports
- Design and implementation of process improvement projects

Career Progression – The Design Engineer will have the opportunity within Fingleton White to be involved in the following as their career progresses:

- Combined Heat & Power plant design
- Biomass boiler and CHP design
- Design & implementation of energy saving projects
- Industrial utilities design, HVAC, steam, refrigeration, compressed air
- Modification to existing fuel storage & processing facilities
- Energy market analysis
- Design of product pipelines

The Candidate - The ideal candidate will possess the following:

- Engineering degree in Mechanical or Electrical Engineering or similar discipline
- 2 or more years relevant experience
- Excellent computer skills with proficiency in Microsoft Excel and Word
- Be committed to working to the highest possible standards within a highly regulated EHS environment
- Experience with building services design, boilers, rotating equipment, or PLC/SCADA systems would be an advantage
- Good academic record
- Full clean driving license
- Excellent interpersonal skills and ability to work on own initiative or as part of a team

Location: This role is based in our Cork office.

Please forward your CV and cover letter to careers@fingleton.ie with your name and job reference in the subject bar.

Closing Date: 28 September 2018